A Fountain at Tlaltenargo. Tlaltenango, situated in the Cuernavaca district of Mexico, possesses an interesting church which has a fine interior, the most interesting object of which is an alleged miraculous figure which stands about two feet high, on a chased silver vase in a glass case at the high altar. From the top of the hill beyond the church a splendid panorama of the neighbourhood is to be had. The view depicted shows the style of fountain common in Mexico.
